A Message from Dr. Frank A. Limpert

FOREWORD

Greetings:

Having been requested to pen an article concerning the United States Paper Money Collection being offered at auction in New York in September by Stack's Numismatists, it gives me a certain amount of pleasure to give other collectors an opportunity to acquire some notes they desire to own for their collections of these rare and historical pieces. There is no need to mention that I feel a sort of reluctance in parting with notes that have graced the pages of my albums for years and seem like old friends to me and have a sentimental value as I recall the donors thereof. Yes of course I sent a check (just a piece of written paper with figures on it), but nevertheless I always felt that I was the recipient of a favor when a collector or dealer let me have some notes I wanted. I believed that I was acquiring something beautiful to be admired by myself and others as a joy forever. Some things are hard to put a money-value on, it appears to me.

This collection of United States Paper Money, Old Series, 1861-1923, has always seemed as a fixed and stable thing in an ever-changing Universe. Business, acquaintances, friends had their ups and downs; wars, came and went; towns became cities, etc., but my collection was always the same and afforded interest, relaxation and pleasure to my friends when conditions outside appeared somewhat topsy-turvy. Optimism returned without fail, accompanied by Peace and contentment, when we viewed the pictures of persons and scenes on the notes, obverse and reverse. To be sure, our love and pride of Country were strengthened as we viewed the vignettes of Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton, etc. of the better known early benefactors of the United States, and of Clay, Marcy, Seward and other not-so-well known early statesmen, and soldiers like Mansfield and J. Birdseye McPherson, who gave their all for all of us.

I really believe if a series of illustrated lectures about the efforts and deeds of those individuals shown on United States Large notes and Fractional currency were given in high schools and colleges from coast to coast and north to south of our great Nation, founded on the Principles of Justice and Freedom, that coming generations of Americans would be benefitted and Patriotism enhanced. Though I no longer will own the notes themselves, it will be a satisfaction and pleasure I am sure, to read about them in the years ahead and wonder who the lucky owners and collectors of U. S. Paper Money are. I will be sure that they are pretty much o. k. and in displaying their collections will make others proud of their country too. We are leaders, not only in early finest engraved and designed paper money, but now, today, in everything else worthwhile; ships, autos, cities, or what have you?

Practically speaking, all of the notes in this sale have a pedigree; some are from the A. A. Grinnell, Colonel Green and Blake famous collections; other notes are from eminent collectors and dealers from New York to California and I believe it would be next to impossible to assemble a grouping like this present matchless U. S. Paper Money collection. The notes have meant a great deal to me and I always felt appreciative when I acquired some notes at auction, and I believe it suits me better that all collectors have an opportunity to bid for those notes they want than for me to dispose of the collection intact to one individual. At any rate my good friend Jos. B. Stack has it for you to bid on at his sale.

Sincerely,

DR. FRANK ALVIN LIMPert

LEGAL TENDER NOTES

Series of 1862

- 1 $1.00. Chittenden & Spinner Uncirculated. (Friedberg 16).

Rare No. 1 Note of 1862

- 2 $1.00. Chittenden & Spinner, August 1, 1862. Plate A. No. 1. This note has the printed notice from the Wall St. Journal of Thursday, July 31, 1924 as once owned by Mrs. Jay Davidson, was acquired by Mr. George Blake and sold to Col. Green. Then sold to Mr. A. Grinnel and was later sold in his famous collection as lot #286, which realized $125.00. There are a few mends but can be rated as a fair specimen. All data on the note accompanies this lot.

- 3 $2.00. First year of Two Dollar Notes. Chittenden & Spinner, Small Red Seal. Plate 1. Series 6. Uncirculated. (F 41).
4 $5.00. First obligation. Chittenden & Spinner. Vignette Liberty. Unc. (F 61).
5 $50.00. First obligation. Chittenden & Spinner. Plate Very Fine, Well Centered. (F 148).

Rare $100.00 Note with A. B. C.

- 6 $100.00. First obligation, Large Spread Eagle on obverse. Chittenden & Spinner. V. F. (F 165). Possibly unique with A. B. C.

Series 1862—Second Obligation

- 7 $5.00. Second obligation. Chittenden & Spinner. Above average V. F. Scarce. (F 62).
8 $10.00. Portrait of Lincoln. Chittenden & Spinner. Printers Rule Mark #8 on top. V. F. (F 95).

1863—Third Obligation

- 9 $20.00. Chittenden & Spinner, small red seal. Unc. Scarce. (F 126).
10 $50.00. Portrait of Hamilton. Chittenden & Spinner. Strictly Fine. (F 150).

Series of 1869

- 11 $1.00. Allison & Spinner. Unc. (F 18).
- 12 $2.00. Allison & Spinner. About Unc. (F 42).

NATIONAL BANK NOTES

FIRST AND SECOND CHARTER PERIOD

The cataloguer thought that the combination of the Charter Period notes and State Seals make a very interesting collection. The footnotes on State Seals are from the original manuscript of Dr. F. A. Limpert and one can readily see the amount of research required to compile this.

STATE SEALS

The earliest U. S. National Banknotes, issued in the early 1860's during the Civil War are known as First Chartered Period greenbacks and had the SEAL of the state wherein the bank was located in the left oval on the reverse of each note.

In the early 1880's when the Second Charter Period brownback National Banknotes were issued, these notes also had a State Seal in the left oval.

There are 44 states and the District of Columbia that did show SEALS on banknotes. All of the early notes are rare now but those from Western and Southern states particularly so.

At the time of the Declaration of Independence, all nations used their Coats of Arms or Seals, to authenticate documents, and on that very day, July 4, 1776, the Continental Congress appointed a committee "to bring in a Seal". Many Seals used by States are heraldic in origin; sixteen qualify as armorial by having a shield as the main device. About half of our State Seals have landscape designs, mountains, prairies, bodies of water, and others have ships, wagons and trains; some have the rising sun indicating hope for the future, others the setting sun over the western ranges meaning development. Following are short explanations of State Seals, beneath which is numismatic data.

ALABAMA

The Seal of Alabama was devised by the first governor of the Territory in 1817 and depicts a tract of land bounded on the north by Tennessee, on the east by Georgia, on the south by Florida and a small portion of the Gulf of Mexico, and on the west by Mississippi. The course of the Alabama, Tombigbee, Black Warrior and Tennessee rivers are shown. In 1868 a new seal was introduced showing a side view of an eagle, with raised wings, upon a shield and bearing a ribbon in its beak with the words "Here we rest". In 1939 the original seal was restored for official use through the efforts of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Alabama became a State in 1819. Both the First and Second Charter notes show a large tree with a map on a rock in the foreground.

ARIZONA

The Seal of Arizona is based upon the original Territorial Seal (see page 13) and depicts a miner and scene and motto:

"Ditat Deus," meaning "God enriches". As Arizona attained statehood in 1912, long after the issue of Original Series notes, this Seal does not appear on U. S. paper currency. Arizona Territory was organized by Act of Congress, February 24, 1863, with the Capital at Prescott, 1863-67; Tucson, 1867-77; Prescott, 1877-89; Phoenix, since 1889.

ARKANSAS

The Seal of Arkansas was adopted in 1864 from the Territorial Seal designed in 1820. The Goddess of Liberty, encircled by thirteen stars, is shown at the top, holding a wreath in the right hand and a Liberty-pole and cap in the left hand. Beneath is an erect American eagle with streamer, "Regnat Populi" meaning "The People Rule". An olive branch in one foot (right) and four arrows in the other; the eagle's breast is covered by a shield with a steam-boat at top, a plow and beehive below and a sheaf of wheat. An Angel of Mercy at left of shield and the Sword of Justice at right.

Arkansas attained Statehood in 1836.

The seals are as described above. The Second Charter $5 brown-back note shows two eagles and a six-pointed star in the shield and motto below.

CALIFORNIA

The Seal of California was designed in 1849 and depicts the Goddess Minerva seated with a spear and circular shield; a bear and miners with mountain ranges in the background and "Eureka" meaning "Have found it" makes up the design. California, which never went through the stage of being a Territory became a state in 1850. Both First and Second Charter Period notes are as described.

COLORADO

The Seal of Colorado is from a similar Territorial seal and was adopted in 1877, a year after Statehood. A shield with three mountains and a crossed pick and sledge is the central design; above is a horizontal fasces and the rising sun; beneath is the motto "Nil Sine Numine," meaning "Nothing without the Lord."

Seals on banknotes are as described; however, Colorado Territorial and First Charter greenback notes have seals without the Latin motto.

KANSAS

The Seal of Kansas was adopted in May, 1861, shortly after Statehood which was granted on January 29, 1861, as the thirty-fifth state. In the foreground is a plowman and team of horses, his log cabin and covered wagon in the distance as well as a hunter pursuing buffalo and a mountain range. At the top, above 34 stars, is the motto "Ad Astra per Aspera" meaning "To the stars through difficulties."

Both First Charter and Second show the state seal as above.

KENTUCKY

The Seal of Kentucky was adopted in 1792, a year after Statehood, and depicted two friendly hunters with clasped hands standing on the edge of a precipice and the motto "United We Stand, Divided We Fall". A later seal shows the friends in dress clothes with a table and document in the background and the motto below.

The Spinner Collection: Document from the Office of Secretary of State at Frankfort shows the later seal as do both First and Second Charter banknotes.

LOUISIANA

The Seal of Louisiana was probably designed shortly after Statehood in 1812 by the first governor. A large pelican, a bird quite numerous in the state, is depicted as stripping its breast to feed its young with its own blood. During the Civil war, the Confederate portion of the state used a seal with the pelican's head turned left and several young birds; the Federal portion had the bird's head turned right with but four young. The present seal, adopted in 1902, is a compromise with head left and three young.

MAINE

The Seal of Maine was adopted shortly after Statehood in 1820 with a central shield showing a moose reclining under a pine tree. At right is a sailor and at left a husbandman. Above the shield as a crest is the North Star and "Dirigo" meaning "I direct."

The Spinner Collection: Document dated April 20, 1866, at Augusta, signed by Sam Cony (Governor, 1864-67), shows the seal as described. So too both Charter national banknotes.

MARYLAND

The Seal of Maryland originally was a Calvert seal used by the Lord Baltimore, 1648-92 and 1716-76. A number of seals were used until 1876, at which date the Legislature re-established the 1648 seal, the obverse of which depicts Baron Baltimore in armor, plumed helmet and sword on his prancing steed. The reverse: Shield with Calvert and Crossland arms quartered; Calvert in the first and fourth of six pales (vertical stripes) alternately gold and black with bend dexter counter-changed (diagonal stripe with colors reversed). The Crossland arms in second and third quarters consist of a quartered field of red and silver, charged with a Greek cross or "botonee" with its arms in trefoils. Crossland arms are counter-changed (red is on silver ground and silver on the red ground). Alicia Crossland was the heiress mother of George, first Lord Baltimore. The shield is surmounted by an earl's coronet with full-faced helmet, indicating Lord Baltimore's rank in America as Count Palatine (one with royal prerogatives); his rank in England was baron only. On the helmet is the Calvert crest, a ducal crown with two half bannerets, one gold, one black. The escutcheon (shield) is supported by a fisherman on the right, a farmer with his spade on left, symbolic of Baltimore estates in Avalon (Newfoundland) and Maryland. An ermine-lined mantle forms the background and the motto in Italian "Fatti Maschii Parole Femine" means "Deeds are manly, words are feminine".

The first Charter greenbacks depict Justice holding up the scales in her right hand and an olive branch and sword in the left. A merchant ship at wharf in left background. The Second Charter brownbacks have the state seal as first described.

MASSACHUSETTS

MICHIGAN

The Seal of Michigan was designed by Lewis Cass, second territorial governor (1813-31) and adopted in 1835, two years before Statehood in 1837. The central shield depicts a soldier, in front of the American Flag and his tent, looking across a body of water at the sun. Above the scene is "Tuebor", meaning "I will defend". As the crest is an American eagle and streamer "E Pluribus Unum", meaning "One of Many". Supporting the shield is a moose at right and an elk, left. Another streamer below is inscribed "Si Quaeris Peninsulam Amoenam Circumspic" meaning "If you seek a pleasing peninsula, look about you".

MINNESOTA

The Seal of Minnesota was adopted during the first year of Statehood, 1858, and depicts a pioneer plowing and warily watching an Indian on a galloping horse; the settler's rifle is resting on a tree-stump close by. The motto in French "L'Etoile du Nord" meaning "Star of the North" indicates the state's geographic position.

MISSISSIPPI

The Seal of Mississippi is based on the territorial seal and was adopted the first year of Statehood, 1817, and shows an American eagle with an olive branch in right talon and arrows in the left and a stars and stripes shield.

MISSOURI

The Seal of Missouri was adopted in 1822, the year following Statehood and has a central elliptical shield, the right half of which is said to indicate the United States and the left half the State. The crescent, upper left, indicates that Missouri was the second state formed out of territory not in the original limits of the Nation, Louisiana being the first. The bear, lower left, indicates resources of the state. As a crest, the helmet signifies sovereignty with the star above it and the motto "Salus Populi Suprema Lex Esto" below the shield means "Let the good of the people be supreme law". Supporting the shield are bears.

MONTANA

The Seal of Montana, based on the territorial seal of 1865, was adopted in 1893, about four years after Statehood and depicts the Great Falls of the Missouri river at right, a plow and farming implements in the foreground, forest and the sun shining over the Rocky Mountains as the background. The motto "Oro y Plata" meaning "Gold and Silver" indicates mineral wealth.

NEBRASKA

The Seal of Nebraska was designed in 1867, the first year of Statehood, and shows a blacksmith, with sledge and anvil, in the foreground, shocks of grain and a cabin at left. In the background is a steamboat on a river and a train headed west near mountain ranges. At top on a steamer is "Equality Before the Law" and at the bottom is "March 1st, 1867".

National Banknotes of both First and Second Charter Periods display the Territorial seal in left oval on reverse.

NEVADA

The Seal of Nevada was adopted in 1866 and is a scene depicting a quartz mill at right and a tunnel at left opening to silver in a mountain. A wagon load of ore, drawn by two horses, is approaching the mill. In the background are mountain ranges, pine trees and a train on a trestle headed East. The 36 stars in the border of the seal indicate the number of states when Nevada became a State by Proclamation of President Lincoln, October 31, 1864. The motto "All for our Country" is at the bottom of the seal.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

The Seal of New Hampshire was adopted in 1784 and shows broadside view of "The Raleigh", one of the first 13 ships ordered by our Navy, and built at Portsmouth in 1776. The Stars and Stripes flies at the stern and pennants from the masts. A rising sun is shown on the horizon. The seal on National Banknotes shows a number of workmen, lumber, a team of horses, etc., in the shipyard at Portsmouth but no flag, pennants or sun.

NEW JERSEY

The Seal of New Jersey was authorized in 1776 and shows three plowshares on a central shield, supported on right by Ceres and on left by Liberty. The crest is a helmet surmounted by a steed's head and the motto "Liberty and Prosperity", and the date 1776, are on a streamer at the bottom. National Banknotes show the omission of the helmet in the crest and Liberty is seated instead of standing, as shown on the Spinner seal.

NEW MEXICO

The Seal of New Mexico was adopted in 1913 and is the same as the Territorial Seal which depicts a large American eagle with arrows in its talons, shielding a smaller Mexican eagle with a serpent in its beak and a cactus in its talons. The motto "Crescit Eundo" meaning "It grows as it goes" is on a streamer below the eagles.

No seal appears on early National Banknotes of New Mexico. Legend has it that Montezuma was born at Pecos Pueblo, N. M., and was mounted on an eagle which flew South, being followed by his people. It finally alighted upon a cactus and seized a snake with its beak; this place became the capital of the Aztec Empire, the present Mexico City, Mexico.

NEW YORK

The Seal of New York was approved in 1778 and has a central shield showing two ships on water with three mountains and the rising sun in the background. The shield is supported on the right by Justice, blindfolded and holding scales, and on the left by Liberty. The crest is a globe surmounted by the American Eagle, "On Top of the World" is indicated. The motto "Excelsior" meaning "Ever Upward" is on a streamer below the shield.

NORTH CAROLINA

The Seal of North Carolina used since 1893 is the fourth one adopted since 1779, which has Minerva, goddess of war, on the obverse and Ceres, goddess of plenty, on the reverse. A later seal shows Liberty at right, seated with a scroll and Liberty-pole, and Ceres at left with wheat and maize. The present seal depicts Ceres at right and Liberty at left, and the date May 20, 1775 (Independence) at top. The motto "Esse Quam Videri" meaning "To be, rather than to seem" appears on a streamer at the bottom.

NORTH DAKOTA

The Seal of North Dakota was originally the Seal of Dakota Territory (created on March 2, 1861). President Harrison issued a Proclamation of Statehood, November 2, 1889, for North and South Dakota. The seal has a large tree with shocks of wheat at its base for a central design. An anvil, sledge and a plow at right. A bow with crossed arrows and an Indian, pursuing a buffalo, are at left of the tree and 42 stars are above it and the motto "Liberty and Union, Now and Forever, One and Inseparable".

OHIO

The Seal of Ohio was adopted in 1803. Legend has it that a group of Officials in 1802 (year of Statehood) worked all night on affairs at the Capitol. Standing on the lawn at daybreak before separating the sunrise was the inspiration for the new state seal, which shows the rising sun between mountains and a bundle of arrows and a sheaf of wheat in the foreground.

First Charter Banknotes show the seal having but 5 arrows at right and Second Charter notes have wheat at right and 17 arrows (indicating the number of states in the Union) at left.

OREGON

The Seal of Oregon was approved in the first year of Statehood, 1859, and has a central shield surrounded by 33 stars, indicating the number of states when Oregon was admitted to the Union. The upper part of the shield shows the Pacific Ocean and coast; in the distance appears a British ship departing and an American ship arriving, representing an end of the joint occupancy by England and the United States. A covered wagon and an elk from a forest is shown just above a streamer with "The Union" upon it. A plow, pick and rake are shown in lower part of the shield, while above it, as a crest, is the American Eagle with an olive branch in the right talon and four arrows in the left.

National Banknotes show changes in some respects in the seal.

PENNSYLVANIA

The Seal of Pennsylvania was adopted in 1776 with the obverse having a central shield, which has a ship at top, a plow at center and 3 sheaves of wheat at bottom. A stalk of maize and an olive branch and leaves surround the shield, and above it, as a crest, is an American Eagle. The reverse of the seal shows Liberty, with drawn sword in her right hand and a staff and cap in her left, trampling a lion, representing Tyranny being crushed. An inscription "Both Can't Survive" is in the border.

Both First and Second Charter National Banknotes show horses as supporting the shield and a motto: "Virtue, Liberty and Independence". Gov. Curtin was the official host at Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

RHODE ISLAND

The Seal of Rhode Island adopted in 1875 is based upon similar seals used in the colony since 1647 and shows a central shield upon a solid rock off shore, with an anchor and the motto "HOPE" above it.

SOUTH CAROLINA

The Seal of South Carolina was first used in 1777 and the obverse shows a palmetto, representing a fort in Charleston harbor on Sullivan's island built of palmetto logs. A torn-up oak, represents the British ships which were built of oak timbers. Two plaques are dated "March 26" (State Constitution) and "July 4" (Independence) and around, as a border, is the motto "Animis Opibusque Parati" meaning "Prepared in Mind and Resources". The reverse shows a woman with an olive branch in her right hand walking on the seashore between daggers and swords. Above in the border is a motto "Dum Spiro Spero", meaning "While I breathe, I hope". Beneath is the word "Spes" meaning "Hope".

SOUTH DAKOTA

The Seal of South Dakota was adopted in 1889 the first year of Statehood and shows a winding river with a steamer in the distance, some cattle on the right and a smelting furnace on the left and a plowman with his horses in the foreground. At top is the motto "Under God the People Rule".

TEXAS

The seal of Texas is a five-pointed star encircled by a wreath of live-oak and olive branches and was authorized in the first year of Statehood in 1845. Legend has it that during the Republic of Texas times, an official (needing a seal) used a brass button from his greatcoat to make the impression, which had a star-like appearance.

UTAH

The Seal of Utah was adopted in 1896, the first year of Statehood, and is based on the Territorial seal, first used in 1850. A central shield has a beehive with Sego lilies (State flower) on either side and the word "Industry" above it and "1847" (Mormon date) below. An American flag is on each side of the shield and the American Eagle is the crest above it.

First Charter notes have the Territorial Seal and Second Charter Brownbacks have the State Seal as described above.

VERMONT

The Seal of Vermont dates back to 1778-79 and has a central shield depicting a large pine tree with a cow beneath it at right and 3 wheat sheaves at left. In the distance forest and mountains are shown. As a crest is a stag's head and below the shield is the motto "Freedom and Unity".

National Banknotes show similar seals but without stag-head or motto.

VIRGINIA

The Seal of Virginia was authorized in 1776 and the obverse, Virtus, with a spear in her right hand and a sheathed sword in her left, has her left foot on the prostrate body of Tyranny whose crown is falling off and who has a club in his right hand and a broken chain in his left. Above the figures is "Liberty and Union" and beneath is "Sic Semper Tyrannis", meaning "Thus ever to tyrants". The reverse depicts Liberty with wand and cap in the center and Ceres with a cornucopia at right and on the left is Aeternita with a globe and bird. Above them is "Liberty and Union" and at top is "Perseverando", meaning "By Perseverance".

WASHINGTON

The Seal of Washington is said to have been devised in a jewelry store shortly before Washington became a state in 1889. Using a silver dollar and an ink bottle, a committee member drew concentric circles and printed between them "The Seal of the State of Washington, 1889". Pasting a postage stamp in the center, he said "The Bust of Washington".

For some unknown reason no Seal is shown in the left oval on the reverse of early National Banknotes of Washington; that panel has an eagle identical to the eagle in right panel or oval.

WEST VIRGINIA

The Seal of West Virginia was adopted in 1863, the first year of Statehood and shows a large ivy-clustered rock at center engraved with "June 20, 1863". At right of the rock is a miner with pick and a sledge and anvil near; at left is a frontiersman with ax and plow. Two crossed rifles and a Liberty-cap are in the foreground and the motto "Montani Semper Liberi" meaning "Mountaineers are always Free".

WISCONSIN

The Seal of Wisconsin is said to have been designed in 1851, three years after Statehood, while the Governor and Chief Justice of the state were sitting on the steps of a bank on Wall St., New York City. A quartered central shield with a small United States Shield, encircled with "E Pluribus Unum" at center has a crossed pick and shovel in upper right quarter and a plow in upper left, an anchor in lower right and an arm and hammer in lower left quarter. The shield rests on a small stack of lead bars and a cornucopia and is supported on the right by a man with a pick and on the left by a sailor with a coil of rope. Above the shield as a crest is a badger and the word "Forward". At the bottom are 13 stars.

WYOMING

The Seal of Wyoming, adopted in 1893 three years after Statehood, as a woman on a pedestal holding a banner in her right hand inscribed "Equal Rights". At right is a pillar and lamp and a miner or oil-seeker; at left is another pillar and a cattleman with lariat.

National Banknotes show a central shield with a train in mountainous country at top and an arm and sword, lower right, and a plow and implements in lower left. Above the shield is "Cadant Arma Togae" meaning "Let Arms yield to Gowns" or "Let Military Might yield to Civil Authority".

UNIQUE FEDERAL RESERVE SAMPLES OR SPECIMEN NOTES

Series of 1914-1918

DENOMINATIONS: $5.00-$10.00-$20.00-$50.00
$100.00-$500.00-$1000.00-$5000.00-$10000.00

- 357 This lot was the piece-de-resistance of Mr. Grinnell's entire collection. which was acquired by Dr. Limpert.

It consists of a complete set of nine pieces of every denomination issued of the Federal Reserve notes (Five Dollar up to and including the Ten Thousand Dollar). These are engravers proofs or specimen notes as they were printed from the original plates. They were all printed from the first or the original plates and were authorized by the Treasury Department.

These plates as they were originally engraved covered the detail of the note as to type only and the balance of the printing as to bank, serial numbers, Treasury seal and the seal of the individual bank, was put on later.

On the proofs, or samples as they are called, which are being offered in this lot the Treasury seal, the serial numbers, and the individual seal of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York have been superimposed.

These proofs were printed on heavy white cardboards both obverse and reverse and have all of the characteristics of the regular notes. It is understood that these are proofs only and have no negotiable value. All of the notes are stamped "Sample."

These notes have been mounted on special cardboard frames, about 6 1/2 "x9 1/2 ", neatly and carefully bound on all four sides and perforated or punched on the upper edge for a ring binder. A special three ring binder has been made for these nine specimens. The binder itself and the binding on the individual cards all match and are made from a rich brown leather.

The $5.00 note, series 1914, has the red seal and No. B0000000A. This note has the photograph of Lincoln in the center of the obverse; and the Discovery of America and Landing of the Pilgrims on the reverse. The latter is the same as the cut used on the reverse of the $1.00 first charter period National Bank Note. Front and back plates No. 1.

The $10.00 note has red seal, series 1914, and has the same detail as the regular note. Serial No. B0000000A and printed from first plates, obverse and reverse.

The $20.00 note has red seal, series 1914, signed by McAdoo and Burke, as are all the former, and is printed from plates No. 1, front and back. Serial No. B0000000A, the same as the others. Photograph of Cleveland on the obverse and the usual cuts on the reverse.

The $50.00 note has a cut of Grant on the obverse and the same Serial No. B0000000A. There is a cut of Panama and two ships on the reverse. Printed from plates No. 1, obverse and reverse. Series 1914 with red seal.

The $100.00 note is of the same series, 1914, with red seal, and has the same matched No. B0000000A. Printed from Plates No. 1, both front and back. Photograph of Franklin on the obverse and an allegorical group on the reverse. Up to and including this note the issue was authorized by the Federal Reserve Act of December 23, 1913.

The $500.00 note and all of the higher denominations were authorized by the Federal Reserve Act of December 23, 1913, as amended by Act of September 26, 1918. This note has a photograph of John Marshall on the obverse and has front plate No. 1. Signed by Carter Glass and John Burke, series of 1918, with blue scalloped seal, and has serial No. 0000000. The cut on the reverse is De Soto discovering the Mississippi, the same as is used on the $10.00 first charter period National Bank note.

The $1000.00 note has a cut of Alexander Hamilton on the obverse. Series 1918, serial No. 0000000, and printed from front plate No. 1. This engraving was marked 'A1' in both corners. Usually the plate number appears only in the lower right corner. The cut of the American Eagle on the reverse is very beautiful. The reverse of this note is of the open type.

The $5000.00 note has the cut of James Madison on the obverse. Series of 1918, with blue seal, and matched serial No. 0000000. Front plate No. 1. A beautiful piece of work and very desirable. The reverse of this note has a cut showing Washington resigning his Commission. This is the same cut as was used on the $1000.00 first charter period National Bank note.

The $10,000.00 note has a portrait of Salmon P. Chase on the obverse, the same as used on the $1.00 1862 Legal, commonly called the 'Chase note.' Printed from front plate No. 1, with matched serial No. 0000000, series of 1918 and blue scalloped seal. The reverse of the note has a cut showing the artist's conception of the Embarkation of the Pilgrims. This is the same picture that was used for the reverse of the $50.00 first charter period National Bank note.

You will get a great thrill in seeing these high denomination notes. They are the highest ever issued that were used for circulation purposes. With the exception of the Gold Certificates only one other issue of these high denominations was ever made. The 1878 series of Legal Tender notes had the $5000.00 and $10000.00 denominations, signed by Scofield and Gilfillan. These have been out of circulation for some time.

I believe that this is one of the most interesting and fascinating items I have ever seen or have had the privilege of selling. I do not believe that a similar item exists. The way these notes are mounted is, I believe, as fine as it could be. The album is sturdy and for display purposes this arrangement is convenient and practical.

These notes represent a total hypothetical value of $16,685.00 and from a collector's standpoint answer every purpose. All of the color and detail of each is the same as the circulated issue. They are beautiful beyond words to describe them and should be seen to be fully appreciated.

I can remember when Mr. Grinnell showed me his collection several years ago that he reserved this lot of specimens, or engraver's impressions, until the very end. He felt that it was the crowning masterpiece of his successful achievement as a collector, and a fitting climax to his extensive and magnificent collection. He was respectably and justly proud of this possession and valued it highly.

Without doubt this is a prize that will bring much joy to the heart of some collector. It is unique and, as stated previously, I do not believe its companion exists. Very strict censorship was exercised over such specimens and they were regarded as very choice.

While Mr. Grinnell parts with these cherished rarities with reluctance he realized that in so doing he is making it possible for some other collector to enjoy their ownership and he sincerely trusts that the new possessors will derive much keen enjoyment from the many items that have been disposed of. Superb gems. 9 Pieces.

I frankly admit that it is a most difficult problem to give an accurate estimate on a great rarity of this nature, however, in my opinion it should realize about ($5,000.00).

The above text is an exact word for word description by the great numismatist, Barney Bluestone, when he sold the famous Grinnell collection. Dr. Limpert paid $4100.00 for this book of specimens. He told the cataloguer that in his opinion he would not be surprised that a bid of $10,000.00 would be offered. The fact is he would not be shocked if it brought more, for in Dr. Limpert's opinion this unique collection is unquestionably the RAREST ITEM in PAPER MONEY.

FOR THOSE WHO LIKE THE UNUSUAL IN FRACTIONAL CURRENCY

Third Issue—Without Gold Surcharge

- 526 10c. Washington with surcharges '10' in gold bronze missing both on obverse and reverse. Similar to #32. Uncirculated, extremely rare. Originally purchased from G. E. Mathewson, Georgia many years ago when $250 was paid for it.

Rare Pair with Secret Mark

- 527 5c. Clark. Showing small "Pearl" in scroll mark beneath 5 in upper right hand corner. Dr. Limpert called it a secret mark. 2 pieces. Both are unc. #42 and 42A.

EXPERIMENTAL PROOFS OF POSTAL CURRENCY

In 1862, due to counterfeiting, experiments were conducted by S. M. Clark of the printing bureau and Dr. Gwynn Stuart of Boston in various papers, etc. In this collection are nine experimental items all of which are punch cancelled and surcharged "Specimen" by what seems a rubber stamp in blue ink. All are exceedingly rare. These specimens are from the Westheimer collection.

- 654 Reverse of the Five Cent, light brown color, autographed by "John Burke", Treasurer of the U. S. Uncirculated.

- 655 Reverse of the Ten Cent, light green, autographed as above, surcharged in corners; 'T 1 18 63'. Bronze frame on reverse. Uncirculated.
- 656 Reverse of the Ten Cent, black printing on red paper, autographed and surcharged as above. Bronze frame on reverse. Uncirculated.
- 657 Obverse of the Twenty Five Cent on thin white paper. Reverse blank except surcharged large 25 in center and 18 63 in corners. Uncirculated.
- 658 Obverse of Twenty Five Cent on PINK paper, Reverse blank except surcharged S-18 63 in corners, large 25 in center. Autographed "John Burke" obverse. Uncirculated.
- 659 Obverse of Twenty Five Cent on thin white paper, Reverse blank except surcharged S 18 63 in corners, and large 25 in center. Uncirculated.
- 660 Obverse of Twenty Five Cent on thin white paper. Similar to above, however, paper was creased prior to the application of bronze frame. Uncirculated.
- 661 Similar to above, but without bronze frame, no surcharges on reverse. Autographed by John Burke. Uncirculated.
- 662 Reverse of Fifty Cent on fibre paper. Carmine color. No surcharges. Blank obverse.
